Alleged Plot of Alabama Negroes to Massacre Whites.

Littlewood Regains His Lead in the Walking Match at New York-The Detroit Cham-Events in the East.

By Telegraph to The Times LEXINGTON (Ky.), May 0.—[By the Associated Press.] Col. A. M. Swope, one of the most prominent Republicans in this State, met Col. William Caisuis Goodloe, also a prominent leader of the Republican party and a State delegate to the Chicago Convention, in the lobby of the Phonix Ho-tel yesterday, and denounced him as an in-famous liar and sooundrel, at the same time throwing off his coat. The hotel was crowded with strangers attending the races. Col. Goodloe said that this was no place to The affair grew out of a speech made at Louisville at the State Republican Convention held last week. There are rumors that a hostile meeting between the gentiemen will result.

A RACE CONFLICT.

Alleged Plot to Murder Whites in Monrgometry (Ala.), May 9.—[By the Associated Press.] Emerson Shepard, a negro, who was fatally shot in a fight with the Sheriff's posse last Thursday, before dying revealed the alleged plot of the leaders in the Lowndes county riot. He states that Friday last was the time appointed to mas-sacre the whites. Meetings were held by the lodges to raise money to purchase am-munition to kill the whites if they attempted o resist the negroes.

The principal negroe engaged in the plot was Bob Robinson, president of the meeting. Nell Mangum, secretary and treasurer of the lodge, was also deeply implicated. They claim to have large societies throughout the United States whose members have resolved to avenge their fallen ones and protect their color in the future at all hazards. The negro claims that Lowndes, Crenshaw and Butler counties have the largest clubs, and are fully competent to do their duty.

largest clubs, and are fully competent to do their duty.

They state that they have endured the mistreatment of the whites long enough, and propose to put an end to it, or there will be bloodshed. All members of the lodges were notified by the leaders that if they failed to be present at the meeting, on Friday, and do their duty in the proposed massacre of the whites they would be put to death. Forty-eight of the negroes engaged in the riot have been arrested and the Sheriff's posse and State troops seem to have put an end to the trouble for the present, but another outbreak is liable to come sooner or later.

A CHICAGO DIVORCE.

How a Californian Was Duped by His Wife. CHICAGO, May 9.—[By the Associated Press.] Homer L. Evans of California, it was developed here today, was, without his knowledge, sued by his wife, Mary, in Chicago, in October last, for a divorce, and the first intimation he had was a few weeks ago, when he received in Oakland, where he lives, a notice that depositions would be taken to prove him a drunkard. In a letter received by the Clerk of the Circuit Court, Evans asks whether there is a bureau "for easy divorce-getting" in Chicago, as the methods employed by his wife would indicate there is. He says he has lived six years in Oakland, yet the notice to take depositions was sent to San Francisco, and he only received it by accident. His wife very well knew where he lived, as she left him in August last, ostensibly to visit friends. He claims that the best relations prevailed between them, and that several letters passed back and forth. He embodies all these statements in an affidavit, in which he adds that he is not a drunkard. The court will advise him to get a lawyer. received by the Clerk of the Circuit Court,

Miscellaneous Matters Before the New York Conference

NEW YORK, May 9.—[By the Associated Press.] Bishop Mallalieu presided at the Methodist Episcopal Church Conference today. Numerous memorials were read. A committee on American Bible work, consisting of a delegate from each conference was appointed.

It was voted to exclude Rev. John E. Rickards of Montana, who, it was claimed, was a delegate to represent a conference to which he does not belong. The question of his admission was debated for over an hour.

Dr. Gray offered a resolution providing that bishops shall be appointed to contiguous districts rather than be sent as now to different parts of the country. After considerable discussion the resolution was referred to a special committee to consider.

BAT AND BALL.

The Champions Defeated by the Bostons-Other Games.

DETROIT, May 9.—[By the Associated Press.] Boston played but an indifferent game, but the work of the champions was miserable, and they could not but lose. Bad base running and worse fielding contributed to the result. Score: Detroit, 6; Boston, 18, PITTSBURGH, May 9.—The weather was very threatening, and the attendance at the ball game was light. The home team was defeated after a hotly contested game. Gleason pitched a good game for the Philadelphias, and they were beginning to hit Henderson pretty hard, when game was called in the middle of the eighth inning, on account of a shower. Score: Pittsburgh, 1; Philadelphia, 2.

CHICAGO, May 9.—Washington's new pitcher Greening, was batted all over the field today, and the home club won easily. Score: Chicago, 13; Washington, 2.

INDIANAPOLIS, May 9.—The New York giants caught Healey off form today, and batted him all over the field. McGeachy went into the box in the fifth, but did not improve matters. Score: Indianapolis, 4; New York, 10.

THE VALLEJO DISASTER.

Discovery of the Cause of the Boiler's Explosion.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 9.—[By the Associated Press.] A statement is published here to the effect that the official report of Inspector Lubbock upon the recent boiler explosion on the steamer Julia will show that the explosion was not caused by the boiler's being burned away by the use of petroleum, as has been commonly supposed, crack eight inches long, six inches of which was to a depth of three-sixteenths of an inch. As the iron boiler was but five-six-teenths of an inch in thickness there was only one-eighth of an inch to withstand a pressure of 110 pounds to the square inch.
The crack was on the inside of the boiler near the top manhole, extending along the double row of rivets. The theory of machinists is that the "skin" of the iron was chinists is that the "skin" of the iron was broken in calking the seam, and that the recent hydrostatic test of pressure applied by the inspectors, together with the successive expansion and contraction of the steam had steadily deepened the crack until it became too weak to further withstand the force exercised upon it. An examination of the defect showed that it was of long standing, the crack being filled with sedment from the water. Bollermakers and foundrymen were unanimous in declaring that the explosion must be attributed to the crack, and it is said that this fact will be fully established by the trenscript of the testimony to be forwarded to the authorities at Washington.

A Convict Shot While Attempting to Escape.

SACRAMENTO, May 9.—[By the Associated Press.] A special dispatch to the Bee from Folsom says: Shortly before 10 o'clock this morning Alexander Duckworth made an unsuccessful attempt to run through the prison lines, and was shot and seriously worth was serving a seven years' sentence from San Francisco for robbery, and had been in prison here five years. He forfeited been in prison here five years. He forfelted all credits several years ago by an attempt to escape. Since then he has been well behaved and a dutiful prisoner, and application had been made to the Governor to have his lost credits restored.

Worry over the loss of time is said to have partly upset the convicts mind, and this morning he started down the track toward Folsom. Fitzsimmons halled him several times, but Duckworth took no heed, and finally broke into a run, whereupon Fitzsimmons fired, the ball passing through both the prisoner's thighs. The wound is considered dangerous. The best order prevailed among the prisoners.

PREWET T'S TRIAL

The Defendant's Former Testimony Admitted Against Him. Salinka, May 9.—The trial of Prewett on the charge of killing Dr. A. W. Powers of the charge of killing Dr. A. W. Powers is still in progress. An attempt was made this morning to introduce testimony given by Prewett at a former trial and the question was argued at great length. The case is attracting much attention.

Judge Alexander overruled the objection to the reading of the testimony of Prewett given at the Coroner's inquest and the former trial, with a few exceptions, and the greater portion of the afternoon was consumed in reading the evidence.

Dr. Nash, Coroner, then testified that the appearance of the body after being taken down from the tree indicated that life had been extinct before the hanging.

THE POLICE COMMISSIONERS MAKE IMPORTANT CHANGES.

They Say the Gamblers Shall Not Carry On Their Games in Los Angeles-Things Look-Very Queer to the Cold-hearted Outsider.

The regular weekly meeting of the Police Commissioners was held at the Mayor's office yesterday afternoon. There was a much larger crowd in attendance than usual, as it was known that the decision of the board would be given in the case of Officer Murray and also that the Doyle Officer Murray and use that the Doyle matter would come up. The usual delegations were in attendance to protest against the granting of saloon lleenses, and there were more than the ordinary number of applicants for positions on the force, as it was expected that there would be at least two vacancies, and possibly more. Mrs. Mc-Donald, the prosecuting witness against Murray, was on hand early, and took a lively interest in the preliminary proceed-ings. Chief Cuddy was the first to arrive, looking cheerful and confident, and as inlooking cheerful and confident, and as innocent, to all appearances, as a smiling school-boy, ignorant alike of the wiles of this wicked world and the schemes of the gamblers. His Honor, the Mayor, was the next arrival, and greeted the assembled multitude in his usual Chesterfieldian style, and some minutes later Mr. Humphreys put in his appearance. This completed the happy official family circle, and the weekly reunion was opened with the reading of the minutes by Clerk Moffatt in his usual happy style. DULL WORK.

The question of deferred saloon licenses was about to come up, when the Mayor called up the Doyle matter, and it was ascertained that he was in attendance at Juscertained that he was in attendance at Jus-tice Austin's court. The Murray matter then came up, and, on motion of Chief Cuddy, Murray was suspended until further orders of the board. Chief Cuddy then, moved that the Doyle case be postponed two weeks, but this was objected to by the Mayor, and it went over until later during Mayor, and it went over until later during the session.

The matter of the saloon licenses was then taken up, the first being that of Barton, out on Temple and Texas streets, and protests were read against granting the license, as well as petitions for it. It was shown that the entire frontage of the block was about 1700 feet, of which the saloon people had 1300, more than the necessary three-fourths required by law, and the petition was accordingly granted.

The next case was that of Farrell & Houser, 708 Temple street, and it was announced that the parties had given up the idea. On this statement, the application was denied, they not having complied with the ordinance.

Licenses were then granted to M. Ryan,

Licenses were then granted to M. Ryan,
Alameda street; M. Lachman, Upper Main street, and action postponed on three others, among them the one at the corner of Fifth and Regent.

The following new applications for saloon licenses were received:

licenses were received: Frank Hilliard, 154 South Spring street (granted); Charles Smith, Sixth and Olive (granted); J. A.
Starkey, 1 North Los Angeles street;
John McManus, East First street (granted);

(denied); Zimmerman, 138 East First (granted); Cowley, Baker & Co., second floor Hollenbeck block (granted).

The reports of the Chief, Captain and sergeants of the police force were read and filed. They contained nothing of special interest, with the exception of Loomis, Sergeant, who reported that three faro games had been running during the week, and that Officer Carter had been found asleep on duty, and had been suspended by the Chief.
The cases of Fred Lovell and Charles
Stein, who both want the same beat on Ala-The cases of Fred Lovell and Charles Stein, who both want the same beat on Alameda street as specials, came up, and Charles Stein presented a strong petition asking that he be appointed to the place. Lovell failing to put in his appearance, Stein was appointed.

On motion, Officer Malkin was ordered paid for his services at the Pavilion during the Flower Festival.

THE M'DONALD CASE. Officer Doyle having put in an appearance, the Mayor stated to him that his name having been prominently mentioned in the Murray investigation in connection with a certain diamond ring, asked him to make a statement.

Mrs. McDonald having been brought into Mrs. McDonald having been brought into the room, Doyle made his statement. He said that he first knew Mrs. McDonald about four years ago, when she was living with a notorious woman named Mother Roudet, who was at that time keeping a house of assignation, and one night he went to the house in answer to a telephone message, he being a mounted officer at the time, when Mrs. McDonald, who was crazy drunk at the time, accused a man of having robbed her. He investigated the matter, and on coming to the conclusion that she had not been robbed, told her so. She then turned on the woman who kept the house and said that she was no good anyway, and was a thief, and on investigating the case he discovered some stolen property, which he discovered some stolen property, which he took possession of. Shortly afterward he was accused by the woman of having robbed her of a diamond ring. The matter was investigated by the commissioners and he was exonerated. He got disgusted at the turn things had taken, and shortly after resigned his position. He said that he had known the woman for years, and that she had repeatedly interfered with him. He denied that he had ever taken anything, or that he had ever stolen a cent from any person.

Mrs. McDonald then told her story, going

Mrs. McDonald frequently appealed to Chief Cuddy to corroborate her statements. She told a straight story throughout, which did not materially differ from the statements which she has heretofore made. Doyle stood by during the narration of the Doyle stood by during the narration of the story, but said nothing until she got to that part where she insisted that Murrey told her that Doyle had stolen her ring, when he broke in with an interruption. A running fire ensued between Mrs. McDonald and Doyle, in which there was crimination and recrimination, and Chief Cuddy stated that he had made a most vigorous effort to investigate the matter at the time. He said he would try to send up any police officer who would be guilty of anything of this kind. He said that Doyle did not resign from the police force on this account.

The matter then went over for a week in order that the records in the case could be secured.

A protest was received by a citizen against the use of the recently-graded portion of Grand avenue as a race course, and the Chief of Police was instructed to stop

The Mayor asked Mrs. McDonald if any threats had been made against her, and on the reply being made that there had, she was told-to have any one arrested that molested her. Mr. Humphreys said that he was of the opinion that Mrs. McDonald had lost some money, and that the officer's statement did not tally with the record. Chief Cuddy agreed with Mr. Humphreys, who moved that the City Attorney be consulted, and that some measures be taken to see that her money is returned, which motion carried.

DIVES. The Chief was instructed to have officers report all saloons of a disorderly character, and dives.

The matter of hack hire then came up, and the filef said he thought that the present schedule was too high. He said that he had arranged a schedule which he thought would prove satisfactory to the public, if not to the hackmen. A general discussion ensued, the opinion being that 50 cents was enough to charge for passengers to or from any depot or hotel in the city. HACK FARES.

LOOMIS ELECTED CAPTAIN.*

The matter of the election of a captain, deferred tor two weeks, then came up, and the resolution offered by Mr. Humphreys, removing Fletcher and appointing L. G. Loomis, was read.

Chief Cuddy moved to amend by substituting the name of Thomas McCarthy for that of L. G. Loomis.

The amendment was rejected, and the original resolution appointing Loomis was adopted, the Mayor and Mr. Humphreys voting year and the Chief nay.

L. R. Harris was made Sergeant to fill the vacancy caused by Loomis's promotion by unanimous vote of the board.

it was agreeable to him.

Theodore Metzler and John Flickner were added to the police force, to be assigned to detective duty, all the members of the board voting in the affirmative.

A number of bills were read and ordered paid.

GAMBLING. Mr. Humphreys said that acting on information which he could only get from the newspapers in regard to gambling, he newspapers in regard to gambling, he would like to call the attention of the Chief to the matter, and for him to do the best that he could for its suppression. A fresh reporter here interrupted with the remark, asking if "that was a pronunciamento for the public?" but Mr. Humphreys paid no attention to it, and continued by saying that he would receive the hearty support of the board, and that he should use his best efforts to carry out the resolutions of the board on that subject. The Chief said that he would do so.

STREET CORNERS.

STREET CORNERS. Mr. Breed called the attention of the board to the nuisance of men congregating on the street corners, and the Chief was instructed to abate it.

THE HACK QUESTION AGAIN. The hack matter then came up, and it was resolved to recommend to the Council that the rates be charged as follows: Hacks, the rates be charged as follows: Hacks, first hour, $2; each subsequent hour, $1; to and from the depots and hôtels, 50 cents for passengers: for funerals, $4; christenings, $3; balls, $4; opera, $3.

Several bills then came up, and the bill of the photographer for making pictures of criminals was cut down from $1.50 to $1 each, and ordered paid.

A number of applications for positions on the force were received and filed, and the board adjourned in high good humor over the result of their harmonious labors.

After the meeting.

AFTER THE MEETING. After the adjournment of the commis-sion, a Times reporter interviewed the members as to the significance of the changes. The gentlemen were all quite jubilant over the result of the meeting, and looked as though a great weight had been lifted from their minds. In answer to the lifted from their minds. In answer to the reporter's question, it was said that the changes were solely in the interest of good government, and that it was deemed best for all the police business to be under one head. It was stated in the most emphatic manner that the gambling houses must close, and that if they are allowed to run the board will know the reason. Both Mr. Humphreys and the Mayor repeatedly declared that they were in earnest in their efforts to suppress gambling, and said that they were now in a position to do it. Chief Cuddy had promised his hearty cooperation in the work, and with Loomis as Captain and Harris as Chief of Detectives, they thought their efforts would Domes as Captain and Harris as Chief of Detectives, they thought their efforts would be crowned with success. The Mayor's private detective force will, of course, be dispensed with, and everything is expected

THE COMPROMISE. It was learned that the compromise of the differences between the members of the board was the result of numerous confer board was the result of numerous conferences between those officials and the leaders of the Democratic party. It was hard work, and it required no end of talk before everything was "squared" to the satisfaction of all concerned. The last obstacle was only removed yesterday, when a final appeal for "harmony" was made by a big politician. He set forth the importance of having everything adjusted before the meeting of the State Convention in this city, so that the feelings of the visiting statesmen would not be hurt by finding discord in the ranks the local brethren.

ON THE STREETS. The news of the action of the board quickly spread, and was discussed rather quickly spread, and was discussed rather generally on the street corners, and in police and official circles. The general impression was that there was some sort of a scheme in the business, but just what it was no one was prepared to say. There was, however, a general disposition to suspend judgment and await developments, to see whether the commissioners were acting in good faith, or whether the move was simply a blind.

GAMBLING AT SANTA MONICA. While the efforts are making to suppress ambling in the city, nothing has yet even been attempted by the county officers to suppress the open and notorious games at Sauta Monica. Four faro games were in operation Sunday, and it is said that abso-lately nothing has been done to stop them. The Grand Jury is still in session, now-ever, and it may be possible that something will be done before final adjournment.

BRILLIANT LECTURE BY HON. GEORGE R. WENDLING

Upon "Hamlet and His Interpreters" -A Great Subject Skillfully Handled by a Great Critic-Booth the Best "Hamlet"-Voltaire Tonight.

George R. Wendling faced a fair repre sentation of literary Los Angeles last night at Hazard's Pavilion, in his lecture on "Hamlet and His Interpreters." Mr. Wendling has made for himself an enviable upon no single-subject is he better than upon that which he chose last night. His handling of the masterpiece of all English literature, the greatest character ever porrayed in history or romance, in poetry or in prose, was as perfect in his way as Booth in his.! Booth is "Hamlet," and shows you the physical and intellectual man. Wend-ling shows you the man in fancy as he was. ling shows you the man in fancy as he was, and as he might have been. He is the great critic standing by, and while "Hamiet" and the personel of that great drama pass one by one across the stage, he takes each and dissects them mentally and physically, and shows you all that Shakespeare intended his characters should be. As the personator and interpretor of "Hamiet," Booth is great; as the critic, Wendling is equally so. Those who went to the Pavilion last night to hear a polished speaker, in well-chesen words and not a little oratory, parade before them in new dress of language the opinions of the old reviewers with no new thoughts or fresh ideas, were disappointed. Mr. Wendling announced at the beginning that he would attempt no oratory, but intended simply a talk in a conversational tone. He began with

THE STORY OF THE SPHYNX and of the riddle which it presented to be solved, and how after the many failures, Gdipus was the only person who succeeded in unraveling the mystery. He said that "Hamlet" was the sphynx of all literature. Ever since the character came fresh from Shakepeare's pen the world had been vainly trying to solve the intellectual riddle it presented. The mystery was still unexplained. If ever there should come an Cedipus who should solve it, the interest and charm in the great character would be lost. "Hamle't' himself would be there, but the mystery gone, his chief charm would be no more.

The old question of "Hamlet's" sanity he treated at length. He did not pretend to commit himself on either side. He said that if the inner side of any well balanced man of today were shown to the world as "Hamlet's" is, his sanity would be just as much doubled. He gave the opinions of every eminent student of the character. Half of them declared the man undoubtedly insane, and the other half were equally sure that he was of sound mind.

Taking up "Hamlet's" interpreters, he said that there had been. Œdipus was the only person who succeede for every generation since the drama was born. As the "Hamlet" of today he named Booth as preëminently the greatest. He said that each of the other great actors who essayed the part eclipsed their "Hamlets" with some other character. Irving was best in "Louis XI." Forest as "Lear," McCullough as "Virginius," and Keene as "Richelieu." Booth alone found his greatest work in the portrayal of "Hamlet." Salvini impressed one more with the idea of a physical than an intellectual glant in his personation of the character, and Irving brougat into it the unpardonable Lancashire drawl. To make the most perfect presentation of "Hamlet," he said, Irving should give his "Polonius," his "Horatio," his "Laertes," his "Polonius," and his stage setting, artistically beautiful and historically correct in every detail, and then step himself aside and give the title rôle to Edwin Booth. Then there would be such a "Hamlet" as the world had never seen. Booth as preëminently the greatest. He

He proved beyond doubt by numerous quotations that "Hamlet" was a young man, and not the man in the thirties, as represented by so many actors. He called the testimony of "Laertes," "Ophelia," the Ghost and the Queen to prove this.

"HAMLET" A FAILURE.

He asserted that "Hamlet" himself was failure. That he depended solely upon his intellect to save himself and failed. His self-indulgence ruined his life. His thought to outwit all his enemies at his trial by pretending insanity was an evidence of this. He had that confidence in his own mighty intellect that he pitted himself, with simply that to rely on, against the combined intellects of those arrayed against him. Had he possessed more faith in human nature he might have won over to his side the most of those who worked his downfall. But he lacked that faith and fell. He was a failure because of that one fault. Less of his philosophy and more of numanity might his intellect to save himself and failed. His his philosophy and more of humanity might have placed him on the throne. It was a question with him, the speaker said, whether the author intended "Hamlet" as a type of one aleas or whether have It was a question with him, the speaker said, whether the author intended "Hamlet" as a type of one class or whether he was all men, all of human nature. Every man could study "Hamlet" and find in the character something of himself, something of his own fears, his own perplexities. The world of the nineteenth century was tull of "Hamlets," full of his philosophy and his tendency to philosophize. America was today developing an abnormal tendency to mind culture, and in so doing was breeding a good many more "Hamlets" than we needed.

Among the greatest things possessed by "Hamlet" which made him great was his courage. He showed that everywhere, and to this might be ascribed much of his fascination for women. They always admire and applaud that in any man. Beside this was his princely bearing, his courteous manners and his exquisite deference to women, which won them to him. But the greatest of all things possessed by that most wonderful man was wonderful man was

THE POWER OF HIS MIND to grasp the idea that "there is a divinity which shapes our ends." He recognized that, knew it, and in all his subtle philoso-that, knew it, and in all his subtle philosophy never lost sight of it.

Through the whole length of his lecture Mr. Wendling held his audience attentive. Their interest never flagged, and it is a great thing for any man to move the sympalhies of an audience when he addresses them simply in a conversation, a plain talk, stripped of all the fervency and fire of oratory, void of all the exquisite beauty of metaphor and imagery, and he who succeeds must have something to say and say well. Mr. Wendling had it. His subject was one rich in interest to every student, and he held ti in hand and dealt it out to them in a way that told the audience a scholar and a thinker was speaking to them, and they showed their appreciation by listening from opening to close. Mr. Wendling never lectured better and never pleased more. ore. Tonight the subject will be "Voltaire."

INQUESTS.

Two Inquests Yesterday and Two for Today. Coroner Meredith returned from San Pedro yesterday afternoon, where he went to hold an inquest on the body of the man run over and killed by a railroad train near that place. He found on his arrival there that Justice Weeks was holding the inquest, which had been continued until 4 o'clock in the afternoon, whereupon Mr. Meredith re-turned to this city without waiting to learn turned to this city without waiting to learn what conclusion had been arrived at.

Last evening the Coroner held an inquest on the body of Mrs. Graves, the lady who was so badly burned while attempting to start a fire out on Temple street with kerosene Tuesday, and who died from the effects of her injuries yesterday morning. After hearing the evidence of the husband of the lady, and the neighbors who lived in the house, the jury returned a verdict in accordance with the facts already published.

Last evening the Coroner was notified by the County Hospital physician that Patrick Waters, the man who was shot by his wife on San Fernando street last week, had died at that place at 7.45 o'clock. The body will be brought to the Coroner's office and an inquest held today. Mrs. Waters, who did the shooting, is in jail in default of ball. Last evening a man called at the Coroner's office in search of that official, saying that there was a case in East Los Angeles which should be investigated—the death of a child under peculiar circumstances. He said that there was a family living in a tent in the Arroyo Seco, at Leconorem street, who were members of the Holiness Band. For the past two months one of the children, aged about 14 years, had been sick, but that the parents had refused to call in a physician, saying that the Lord would cure the patient. The child continued to grow worse, but they still refused to call in medical aid, and yesterday it died. The man said that the citizens in the vicinity were yery indignant over the matter, and wanted said that the citizens in the vicinity were very indignant over the matter, and wanted it thoroughly investigated. The Coroner was out holding an inquest at the time, but was informed of the aftair when he came in. He will look into it this morning.

SEVENTH REGIMENT.

Anxiously Waiting for Waterman to Appoint a New General. The members of the Seventh Regiment are anxiously awaiting the Governor's announcement of Brig.-Gen. Mathews announcement of Brig.-Gen. Mathews' successor. Gen. Mathews forwarded his resignation last Sunday afternoon, since which time nothing has been heard in regard to the matter. It is the general impression among the members that the whole thing was settled before Gen. Mathews was requested to resign, and that it is a political move, Gov. Waterman being credited with a hankering after a second term, and being amarently possessed of the term, and being apparently possessed of the delusive idea that the National Guard can delusive idea that the National Guard can be converted into a Prætorian guard. There has been some talk of sending up a general protest against the Governor's action by the rank and file, but this was not done, a number of prominent citizens contenting themselves with writing letters and sending telegrams. There has also been some misunderstanding as to how the resignation of Gen. Mathews was brought about. It was simply a direct demand by Gev. Waterman upon the General for his resignation, giving no reason whatever for this unexpected action, and studiously avoiding the usual military channels through which to send his ukase. The whole story is told in the following correspondence:

Of course all of the members of Gen.
Mathews's staff will at once tender their resignations as soon as that of Gen.
Mathews is accepted, and it is said that the officers of several of the companies will do the same, but they may reconsider their present intention. There will be no further developments until the new Brigadier General is announced.

The boys seem to be apprehensive that the change is a scheme to saddle a smoothbore Brigadier-General upon them, which is one of the causes of their uneasiness.

The Democratic Administration as Viewed from a Cowcatcher—Lo in the Hole of a Collector of Salvage—Neat but Not Gaudy Scheme to Fleece the Treasury.

United States Marshal Risley's warmhearted Democratic friends are very much afraid that he has accepted an office in which there is more honor than cold coin. They have become greatly exercised over his welfare, and to force the only honest administration to give the old man a boost from a coin standpoint, they have set the story of his troubles afloat. They start out by saying that his salary is but $200 a year, and that the fees are but ₹2 for each arrest, and six cents a mile for mileage. They further claim that the mileage scheme is the biggest part of the business; if a deputy know how to work the racket.

But to get down to business: It is clamed on the part of his friends that when he first knows how to work the racket.

But to get down to business: It is cla on the part of his friends that when he first took office, he saw that he could not run the office unless he could, by some hook of crook, capture the mileage. To an ordinary Democrat this might seem

A HARD TASK, but the Captain did not give up. He put on his thinking cap, and soon thought out a scheme by which he could corral the boodle. He saw that the most of his traveling could be done by rail, and as the railroad people have a weakness for officers, he knew that he could capture passes, not only for him self, but for every one of his deputies. For a martial Democratic marshal to think is to act, and, in a few days, the Captain was armed with passes, and the 6-cent racket was begun at once. His men were started out, and criminals of all classes were brought in from all over the country. But scheme by which he could corral the boodle started out, and criminals of all classes were brought in from all over the country. But of all the schemes, the "Injun" racket is the boss, according to the opinion of one of the Captain's best friends. When translated, this warm friend's remarks go something like this:

"They all do it—Missourians, Irishmen and Injuns. Why, sir, our Missouri Injuns always ride on a pass. It never costs them anything. The Missourians never charge poor Lo a cent for "The Missourians are a great people. They love everybody, and when a poor native of the wild and untamed desert wants to ride, he must ride free. The 6 and 10 cent mileage plan comes in very handy. An Irishman gives a pretty squaw a drink of Missouri whisky. Her buck watches the Irishman, and when two or three dozen bucks have been called in to gaze on the Missouri performance between the squaw and the Irishman, the boss buck lights out for Los Angeles. He comes by cowcacther, and swears out a complaint against the Irishman. The buck goes back as soon as the warrant is out. The Missouri deputy goes up, arrests the Irishman and brings him down. He gets mileage both ways—6 cents for going and 10 cents cousing. All the bucks who saw the Irishman present whisky to the squaw, have to appear in court, and they all get 10 cents mileage. The Missouri deputy has to go after the witnesses. Mileage both ways. The Injun witnesses come down by cowcatcher, but they get mileage counts up so fast that Injuns make better wages than any laboring man in this city. The Missouri deputy gets rich, because the Injuns lay for the Irishman, and whenever their mileage runs out they catch him throwing whisky at the squaw. Oh, the railroad pass is a mighty great thing."

"THE TIMES" INVESTIGATES. RIDING ON A COWCATCHER. "The Missourians are a great people. They at the squaw. Oh, the railroad pass is a mighty great thing."

"THE TIMES" INVESTIGATES.

Yesterday a TIMES reporter was detailed to look the matter up. He found that the Marshal's office not only ride on railroad passes, but collect mileage from the Government. The deputies don't get a salary, but are paid by fees. When a warrant is placed in a deputy's hands for service, he goes to where the criminal is, and gets 6 cents mileage for going and 10 cents a mile on the return trip. He then has to go back after witnesses, and before the case is disposed of he will run his mileage up to from 30 to 45 cents. Now, if he had to pay railroad fare he would have but little left after he had turned over to his superior half the mileage. Some good Democrat learned that the Marshal of the Southern District and his deputies were riding on passes, and thinking that the Grand Jury might want to look into the matter, he made charges. The jury investigated, but could not decide whether it was in their power to take action or not. They examined the books of the Marshal's office, but nothing was done. A well-known lawyer was seen, and, in answer to a question, said: "Of course, officers can take passes over roads, but they have no right to du so. If the Government understood that its officers were to ride on passes mileage would not be allowed. There is another reason why officers should not ride on passes. If the Government should have a case against the railroad company, it would hardly be the correct thing for Uncle Sam's officers to be under obligations to the company. No, sir, I do not be allowed. That the Marshal has a right to accept passes and collect mileage, when he is not out a cent for fare."

Capt. Risley was not in the city yesterday and could not be seen. "THE TIMES" INVESTIGATES.

THAT BABY.

A Deputy Sheriff Fails to Capture It.

The Superior Court having appointed Mrs. Watson as guardian of the tiny little waif whom "Mother" Brown objected so strongly to part with, a deputy was yesterday dispatched from the Sheriff's office to Mrs. Brown's home, on Commercial street, to take possession of the little "unknown." Somewhat to his surprise, the youngster was non est, and repeated inquiries of his part only elicited the reply from the "mother" that the baby was only staying with her a few days while it was sick, and that heaving got all right earls it had been day dispatched from the Sheriff's office to with her a few days while it was sick, and that having got all right again it had been taken away, four or five days ago, by the family who had it in charge. She furthermore stated to the law's emissary that the child's mother would soon be in the city to claim the little one, when all the fuss that had been made would be proven to be all for nothing. The deputy returned without the child, and up to date Mother Brown has scored one.

IN MEXICO.

His Bondsmen Will Not Have to Pay Up if He Is Dead. In Department No. 2 of the Superior Court yesterday, before Judge Gardiner, the case of P. Walters, charged on an informa-tion filed by the District Attorney with an assault with a pistol upon A. B. Adams at Santa Monica, with intent to kill him, came up for trial. Col. G. W. Wells appeared for the de fense, and stated that the defendant, who fense, and stated that the defendant, who was out on bail, had gone to Lower California, and since his departure it had been impossible to learn anything regarding his whereabouts. The Court thereupon ordered that the bond for $800, given by J. C. Morgan and H. T. Giroux for Walters, be declared forfeited. In the event, however, of it being proven that Walters had died, the bondsmen would be exonerated.

YOUNG DAVIS.

His Check Is Thrown Out of Court Yesterday. Yesterday the case of Davis et al. came up in Justice Taney's court, which revived old memories regarding the firm that started last summer under the title of Davis & Co., and commenced as tobacco merchants in this city. The principals were the wife of A. Davis and her father, F. Carpenter, an A. Davis and her father, F. Carpenter, an old resident of Los Angeles. A. Davis was the manager. He bought and sold, and as he was rather extravagant, the firm was soon involved in debt. The manager leaving the city brought things to a crisis, and his wife being discouraged by his behavior, he was removed from the firm and Mr. Carpenter settled with the creditors.

UNDER THE WHEELS.

He Will Probably Die from His In-Juries.

Last night about 10 o'clock, as the overland over the Santa Fé pulled out of the depot, a suppressed scream was heard, ap-parently coming from under the cars, and when the train passed several bystanders rushed to the spot, where they rushed to the spot, where they found a middle-aged man, rather poorly dressed, lying between the rails with his left leg badly crushed near the thigh, the trucks of several cars having evidently passed over it. several cars having evidently passed over it. The man was groaning heavily, and was evidently suffering great pain. Dr. Wing was at once telephoned for, and responded at once. It was at first supposed that it was a railroad employé who had been hurt, but when it was found that the man was not in the employ of the company, it was decided that he should be sent to the County Hospital. A vehicle was prepared for the wounded man, and he was brought to the police station, from which place he was sent to the hospital. The man gave the name of John C. Buckley, and he was about 50 years of age. He was attempting to ride on the brake beam of a Pullman sleeper, but lost his hold, and fell beneath the moving train, with the result above stated. It is probable that Buckley will die from his injuries.

Went Back on Him. In Department No. 1 of the Superior Court yesterday, before Judge Cheney, the case of B. Pascera, charged with assault to murder, came up for trial. The jury, witnesses and defendant were all ready, but the trial could not go on, inasmuch as George C. Knox, the defendant's attorney, George C. Knox, the defendant's attorney, was not present. It trans pired that he had taken charge of the case on Tuesday last; the compensation not being forthcoming he withdrew, and would have nothing more to do with his client. The defendant stated the above facts, and asked for a continuance. The Court theu intimated that when an attorney takes charge of a case and learns all the defendant's secrets, it is his duty to see it through. To withdraw at the last moment is an injustice to the defendant and the Court. It is the right of every man to have a fair and impartial trial, and in consideration of the facts the case was continued until June 11th at 10 a.m. Judge Cheney then appointed H. J. Crawford with the recalcitrant attorney G. C. Knox as defendant's attorneys, and ordered that the latter gentleman be notified to appear without further orders.

letter, dated May 7th, from J. B. Seghers, Jr., manager of the Hotel del Coronado:

"Knowing that The Times is ever on the alert to expose fraud of all kinds, I deem it my duty to inform you concerning a couple of slick swindlers, who have just departed from San Diego after a brief but brilliant career of fraud and deadbeatism. They dressed gorgeously, were always on the mash, and talked on all occasions about the enormous circulation of the New York Morning Journal, for which they elaimed to be correspondents. Since their departure, which they took without the formality of paying their bills, we have been notified that the Morning Journal repudiate them, and have also received inquiries concerning them from the hotel at Woodland, where, it seems, they played the same game as here. Shortly before leaving here they announced their intention of 'doing' Los Angeles, which they are doubtless engaged in now, and will continue their way up the coast, steering clear of Woodland, however. They gave their names here as F. H. Ertel and A. J. Battersby.

Recent issues of the Woodland Mail gave the travelers a parting solute, which reads as follows:

"A. J. Battersby, one of the twain who recently arrived in Woodland to 'do' the town in the interest of the New York Jourbal is out in an article in last Thursday's Democrat defending himself and Ertel against the charges contained in the Well letter, published Thursday in the Mail. In reply, Battersby alleges that he had telegraphed urgently for Ertel to come back to Woodland. Last evening Battersby exhibed around town what purported to be the responses of Ertel to his numerous telegrams. Ertel answered that he couldn't come and ordered Battersby immediately to repair to San Francisco.

"Battersby assumed to be very wreth last evening, and was going to break 'that d—Jew Well's head' if he ever met him. He was in conference with a law firm yesterday, and his counsel mildly informed the Mail that if we would set Mr. Battersby last evening, and our investigation of the gentleman developed all the proof necessary to convince us that he is a clumsy ilar and a transparent humbug.

"He denied that Ertel was kicked out of the United States Hotel in Los Angeles for making a drunken disturbance with prostitutes. Ertel, he said, was a most exemplary gentleman, he received loving letters weekly from his wife and child, etc. All there was about the United States Hotel matter, Mr. Ertel went to the house and asked the price of a room. He was told $5. He never said another word and went out of the hotel; that was all there was of it. The reporter made Battersby see that he put his foot into it by admitting that there was this slight foundation for Weil's story. To extricate himself, he confidentially explained that Ertel did have a quiet little woman. He picked her up in Sacramento and took her down south with him. Ertel and the woman were at the United States Hotel, but they behaved very nicely. Afterwards Ertel 'settled up defending Ertel and wens of ar 4s to conferend him upon his own unsupported states had his attempted expla

As the personifications are directed principally to a taking off the Brooklyn pastors, allow me to give you a sample of one which was doubtless regarded by her as the masterpiece of the entertainment. The young woman appears on the platform in a clerical coat, vest, collar and cravat. while her nether garments are hid by a kind and considerate curtain. The face of the young woman is whiskered and mustached, the hair arranged in style, with the head sufficiently bald to represent the great Brooklyn pastor, De Witt Talmadge, and the young woman with miniery. Talmadge, and the young woman with admirable mimicry, takes off the preacher in his discourse.

That part of the audience who enjoy such tomfoolery, are of course, conr vulsed with laughter, while the resfeel pained and mortified that out churches that have been consecrated to the worship of God should be so desecrated with such buffoonery. I submit it to the pastors and churches: Can nothing be done to arrest this tide of vulgarity and irreverence in those structures consecrated to the worship of God? We must confess that we respect the Episcopalians and Catholics, who still seem to retain in their churches a decent regard to God and man.

There will be some Democratic disappointment that the House Committee on Elections has decided not to unseat Vandever, Republican, of California, in behalf of the contestant Lynch, since if Lynch's claims had been admitted the California delegation would have been a tre practically, and could have no influence in case the Presidential election were thrown into the House. There is another chance to accomplish this in the case of Congressman Felton, whose majority was only 119, but it is not at all likely that the Elections Committee will take advantage of it.

A. Grotesque Spectacle.

[Philadelphia Press.]

The spectacle of the Democratic party making an organized assault of a Presidential election is audacious and grotesque in equal degree. It is much as if a tramp were to set fire to a haystack with the notion that the deed might persuade the owner of it to give him employment.

Another Burglary-Building Operations-Railroad Matters-How the Mills Tariff Bill Will Work-A Sad Case in Court-Other Criminalities

PASADENA, May 9 .- [Specially Reported for THE TIMES.] The story of the Coleman woman in this morning's TIMES concerning her arrest and fine here yesterday morning will hardly hold water, and the Marshal and Justice are not at all alarmed about hav-"placed themselves in a peculiar position in thus interfering in a case not within their jurisdiction." The cold and official facts regarding the case are as follows: Mrs. Coleman came here from San Francisco or elsewhere outside this bailiwick on Saturday night last, and proceeded to have a rip-roaring good time with a few congenial spirits, and by and with the aid of sundry bottles of spirits that were presumably very bad. For her hilariousness, foul talk and other unladylike conduct at and near the house of her friend, Mrs. Kammer, on Mills street, she was run in by the police, and next morning forfeited a $10 bail deposit in acknowledgment of the evil of her ways. On that occasion she appeared in public as Mrs. McCaughey. Monday she went to Los Angeles and got into the unpleasantness with Mrs. Kammer, that led to her arrest there, and Monday night she came back here, and was again arrested, on her way to the Kammer domicile, the complainant being Mrs. Kammer, and the complainant being Mrs. Kammer, and the complain assault and battery, committed at Los Angeles. To this complaint Mrs. Coleman pleaded guilty, and was fined $100. Justice Terry had no official knowledge of a prior arrest for the same crime. It was sufficient for him toknow that the offense was committed within the few congenial spirits, and by and with or a prior arrest for the same crime. The was sufficient for him to know that the offense was committed within the county, and that the offender pleaded guilty to the charge. That Mrs. C. is a tough citizen would not be sufficient palliation for an illegal proceeding against her, but the transcript of official acts done in this court will be enough, no doubt, to meet any and all allegations as to illegality. Such transcript is ready to be furnished upon application.

Another burglary was committed about 1 o'clock this morning, but it was not productive of profitable results to the burgling party. The house entered is that of J. U. Fitzhenry, one of our well-known boot and shoe merchants, who lives at 63 Center street, and has among

At the hour mentioned, one of these boarders, a young lady, who occuples a room on the ground floor, was awakened by a noise, and saw with terror that a man was standing in her room. She screamed and the man boited through the window. Mr. Fitzhenry got outside as soon as possible, and fired a shot in the direction of the escaping burglar, but as it was pitch dark, no chance to get a glimpse of him was possible. Nothing had been stolen from the house. Entrance into the room had been effected by placing a box under the window, opening the blinds and raising the lower sash.

Walter Johnson and J. C. Harney, two young men found "looking for work" in a boxcar last night, were given a 10 days' job each this morning, doing time in the county lockup.

same neighborhood, is well under way. There are preparations afoot for a large number of fine dwellings to be put up here this summer, and the general outlook for a lively season is decidedly good. The banks report money easier than for some time. Statements from various authentic sources concur that a very large hegira of eastern people to Southern California is assured, and all indications point to a continuance of the prosperity which has been for so long a time enjoyed by this section of the State.

Matters about the depots will some take on a very enlivening aspect. Next Monday work will be begun on the new freight depot, just north of the gas works, and as soon as the foundation of the passenger depot is in shape for brick-laying the walls will be pushed brick-laying the walls will be pushed up by a large force. The freight build-ing will be of frame, and, with plat-forms, will be a structure 50 feet wide and about 150 feet long. Three tracks will be laid to accommodate the transbrick-laving the walls fer of goods, and everything about the place will be arranged with an eye to the convenience of both shippers and railroad officials.

Mr. Hovey of the Pasadena Fruit Crystalizing Company makes a state-ment of a fact that has a pointed bearment of a fast that has a pointed bearing upon the tariff question, and brings one of the results of a free-trade policy directly home to California people. He says that some time ago his company received an order from a New York house for 50 tons of assorted crystalized fruits, the order to be filled if the Mills Tariff Bill fails to be filled if the Mills Tariff Bill fails to be filled if the Mills Tariff Bill fails to be filled if the Mills Tariff Bill fails to become a law, but to be considered cancelled if that measure should pass. When it is remembered that crystalized fruits now pay a duty of 30 per cent. ad valorem, and that the Mills bill places this class of goods on the free list, the caution of the New York dealers is explained. Even with a tariff of 30 per cent. on the foreign goods, manufacturers of crystalized fruits find it dificult to compete with French importers. Remove this duty altogether, and the probability becomes strong that the factory at Pasadena, as elsewhere would have to close up or do a losing business. The order mentioned would keep this factory busy nearly all summer. Its goods already have an excellent reputation in the eastern markets, but the Mills Tariff Bill knocks them out.

Work is going forward on the extension of the City Reilynay Company's

Work is going forward on the extension of the City Railway Company's line southward on Raymond avenue from Colorado street to the depot.

Some complaint is heard from members and officers of the Presbyterian Church on account of the criticism in this correspondence about the lack of ventilation in the church. It is not denied that there is no ventilation, but it is said that the apparatus to secure pure air has not been put in by reason of delay in receiving necessary material. If the Presbyterians shall succeed in introducing a fairly successful method of ventilating the building they will deserve the thanks of the church-going community. At the same time they will have accomplished what might well be imitated in other public assembly-rooms of the city.

The case of Mansfield, alias "Doughnuts," the boy under arrest for holding up another boy with a revolver for five cents, was postponed this morning until tomorrow. The trial of L. Ketchel on the charge The trial of L. Ketchel on the charge of indecent exposure commenced in Justice Terry's court this afternoon. It attracted a large crowd, but before the taking of testimony began spectators were excluded from the room. The graver accusation of sodomy is to be investigated at the conclusion of this case. City Attorney Polley appeared for the prosecution and W. P. Hiatt for the defense. The testimony of the prosecuting witness, a boy named the defense. The testimony of the prosecuting witness, a boy named Harry Ballard, is not fit for publication. It was objected to on the part of the defense on the ground that the boy's mind is not sound, and such, in some degree. seems to be the truth, although he told a tolerably straight story as to the main particulars of this unfortunate affair. His mother is a widow of eyident refinement, and this matter in nate affair. His mother is a widow of evident refinement, and this matter, in which her only son is concerned, has prostrated her with grief. She appeared in court this afternoon with a lady friend, and gave her testimony without hesitation, which was mainly a recital of the story related to her by her son on his return home last Sunday, after his encounter with Ketchel. The trial, which is before a jury, is in progress at this writing.

Lumber has been arriving heavily of late, and as the orders of the dealers are generally predicated upon a pretty accurate sizing up of the demand for the future, the large receipts may be taken as another indication of the increase of building operations here.

The meeting of the Board of Trade held this morning to further consider the proposition to encourage the estabthe proposition to encourage the estab-lishment of an iron foundry here, re-sulted in the reception of three offers to donate a lot for the purpose. These offers come from Stephen Townsend, J. H. Painter and Dr. Thomas, the latter representing himself and others. All the lots are in the northern part of town. The opinion of those present was that it is perfectly feasible to raise the cash bonus of $1000 asked by Simp-son, the foundry proprietor. The selec-tion of one of the lots will probably be made at once, when the proposition may be considered as accepted.

Blaine's Position.

Mr. Blaine is today a greater man than he would be if he were elected President. He fills a place in the hearts of the people that is filled by no other man in America. But those who are working to bring about his nomination and acceptance in spite of his lettion and acceptance, in spite of his letter declining to allow the use of his name before the convention, are doing more than anything else they could do to destroy the esteem in which he is held.

THE SUN" ON SOUTHERN CALL FORNIA.

Many more calls than we could fill have been made for last Sunday's TIMES, containing the comprehensive and valuable article, in sections, from the New York Sun, nine columns long descriptive of Southern California. To supply the demand a large number of extra copies of the WEEKLY MIRROR, to be issued tomorrow (Friday) morning, will be printed. The matter is exceptionally correct, fair and useful, and hundreds of copies could be distributed with advantage to the country. Orders for quantities, from dealers and others, should be sent in early.

Facile Princeps.

A correspondent, writing from Los Angeles to a New England paper, expresses the opinion that a person cannot do as well in investing within the city limits of Los Angeles as in some of the smaller towns outside.

From this view of the case we must eg entirely to differ. It is true that during the speculative-boom era the city of Los Angeles was thrown considerably in the shade by the numerous outside villages and would-be townsactual, formative and imaginarywhose sponsors paraded our streets and placarded our walls with pictorial representations of embryo metropoles, any one of which was destined to eclipse Los Angeles. Every little vil lage and forty-acre tract between Newhall and San Diego spent barrels of printer's ink to prove how far superior were its attractions-climatic, scenic and real estatic-to those of this pueblo To so great an extent was this carried that a stranger, picking up a bundle of this description of advertising literature, would arrive at the conclusion that Los Angeles city was a place to be religiously avoided by all who value their health and morals-a sort of nineteenth century Gomorrah, founded by ignorant natives in the most undesirable spot in Southern California, and inhabited chiefly by persons engaged in fishing for suckers. Los Angeles, confident in its superior strength, good-humoredly watched these proceedings, much as a mastiff regards the terriers who threaten to devour it with their bark. Those who placed their faith in this city as the permanent metropolis of Southern California have been amply rewarded. Good business property in this city is centers will have to wait a long time before they get their money back.

As a fact, Los Angeles is—and must always be—to Southern California what New York is to the Atlantic States. Adjacent villages and towns will be to Los Angeles what Jersey City and Utica and Buffalo are to New York. Any talk of rivaling this city as a commercial center of Southern California is absurd. We have the best geographical portion both for comand climate. Our climate superiority was amply proved during the heavy wind storm which visited this section a few months ago, also during the prevalence of the cold spell. Possessing such unequalled natural advantages, all Los Angeles needs to continue on her present prosperous career is to throw no obstacles in the way of people who come here to settle Other things being equal—or nearly equal—they will prefer this city to outying settlements every time, for here they can have all the advantages which are only to be found in large communities; but we must see that they are not driven out by muddy streets, lack of sewers, or undue multiplicity of groggeries. Once let these points be settled and there is no reason why Los An geles city should not have a population of 250,000 before the end of the present century. Gambling and Gamblers.

Contrary to rumors which have been disseminated, Mayor Workman reaf firms his determination to suppres gambling, without regard to persons or politics, and without reference to the effect of such action upon his own per sonal standing and fortunes. Mr. Work man declares that no quarter will be shown the knights of the green cloth and their hangers-on. His colleague on the Board of Police Commissioners, Mr. Humphreys, is fully in accord with determination they are entitled to the is well known that very great pressure has been brought to bear upon the element in his own party-and in fact

We, in common with all fair-minded citizens, are disposed to be patient, and give the authorities time to effect the needed work of reform; but result must not be postponed too far into the future, or distrust will take the place of hope and confidence in the public

THE Arizona Democratic Convention came near winding up in a free fight, the cause being a contest between the Governor's adherents and those who wished to censure him. Finally a compromise was agreed upon, although two anti-administration delegates were elected, one of them being the owner of a Republican newspaper at Tomb-Gov. Zulick, who hails from New Jersey, has a rather shady record in connection with a mining enterprise in Sonora. He is very unpopular in Arizona, even with his own party. If Arizona had a vote, its disgust with Cleveland's appointee would undoubtedly result in a rousing majority for the Republican Presidential nominee

THE New York Tribune has been looking into the cause of the fires which occurred during the year just past. The discovery that a large proportion of the fires were caused by defective flues is suggestive of the importance of greater care in the construction of buildings, and the necessity for the appointment of competent building inspectors in all of our large cities.

THE agricultural editor submits the following, which "goes:" "Considering, Mr. Editor, the rapid advance that is being made in the breeding of fine cattle, it requires no stretch of the imagination to picture the stock-yard critic of the future writing as follows: The rare beef-like beauty of the Jersey heifer charmed all beholders. Tw well-developed calves set the baldheaded farmers crazy with delight."

It is high time for the political car-penter whose business it is to nail lies to be getting his able hammer reburnished and his nail-bag in order, for the Democratic orators will soon be loose in the land and a-shoutin'.

He then procured an office on Main street, near Second, and branched out in his opera-tions. He has done fairly well in his swindling operations, but, like other "fy" men, he has at last overplayed himself, and now languishes in the toils of the law. He secured the services of an Italian, who picked up six of his countrymen, who could neither read sor write, but who wanted to go to Pennsylvania. He steered them up to Evans's office, and that worthy represented neither read nor write, but who wanted to to to Pennsylvania. He steered them up to Evans's office, and that worthy represented that he was a ticket agent, and could sell them the tickets. Four of the men put up $42 each, and two of them $20, when they were given brass checks of the Sunset Transfer Company, which Evans told them were to be presented to him when they wished to leave, and their tickets 'would be given them. The men came up to his office yesterday for their tickets, when Evans took them into a back room and tried to sell them a house and lot. When they asked for their tickets and presented the brass checks, the swindler denied that he had ever seen them, and refused to recognize the checks. Complaint was made, at police headquarters, when Officer Berry was sent down and took Mr. Evans in. When searched at the station, a check for $1081 was found in his possession, and a small amount of money. The officers are now looking for the Italian accomplice.

The Dead Statesman's Services to His Party and the People.

His Stalwart Battle for the Freedom of the Colored Race.

The Great Leader Described and Eulogized at a Patriot, Citizen and Potitical Leader-The Oration Delivered Before a Crowded House at Albany.

Fu Telegraph to The Times.

ALBANY (N. Y.), May 9.—[By the Associated Press.] Thirty-five hundred persons in the Academy of Music of this city tonight, listened to an oration by Col. Robert G. Ingersoll, to the memory of Rosco Conkling, and one-fourth as many more be sieged the barred doors, while many climbed to the roof and peered through the sky to the roof and peered through the sky lights. The ceremonies were under the uspices of the Senate and assembly. Col. Ingersoll said, in substance:

"Roscoe Conkling, a great man, orator, statesman, lawyer, distinguished citizen of the Republic, in the zenith of his fame and power, has reached his journey's end, and we are met here in the city of his birth to pay tribute to his worth and work. He earned and held a proud position in public thought. He stood for independence, for thought. He stood for independence, for courage, and, above all, for absolute integrity; and his name was known and honored by many millions of his fellowmen. In the presence of death, a good manjudges as he would be judged. He knows that men are only tragments, that the greatest walk in the shadow, and that faults and failures mingle with the lives of all. In the grave should be buried prejudices and passions born of conflict. Charlishould, hold the scales jin which are weighed the deeds of men, their peculiar traits, born of locality and surroundings. These are but the dust of the race. These are accidents, the drapery, the clothes, fashions that have nothing to do with the man, except to hide his character. They are the clouds that cling to the mountains. Time gives us a clearer vision. That which was merely local fades away. Words of envy are forgotten, and all there is of sterling worth remains. He who was called the partison is called the patriot. Fortunate it is that the Nation is great enough to know the great. How poor this world would be without its graves, without the memories of its mighty dead. Only the voiceless speak forever.

"INTELLIGENCE, INTEGRITY AND COURAGE are the effect of the support. States courage, and, above all, for absolute in "INTELLIGENCE, INTEGRITY AND COURAGE are the great pillars that support States. Above all, the citizens of a free nation should knoor brave and independent men of stainless integrity, of will and intellectual force. Such men are Atlases, on whose mighty shoulders rest the great fabric of the Republic. Flatterers, cringers, crawlers, time-servers are dangerous citizens of a democracy. They who gain applause and power by pandering to the mistakes, prejudices and passions of the multitude are ever the enemies of liberty. Most people are slaves of habit, followers of custom, believers in the wisdom of the past, and were it not for brave and splendid souls the dust of antique time would lie unswept and mountaineous error would be too highly heaped for truth to overawe. Custom is a prison, locked and barred by those who long ago were dust, the keys of which are in the keeping of the dead. Nothing is grander than when a strong, intrepid man breaks the chains, levels the walls and breasts the many-headed mob like some great cliff that mocks the innumerable billows of the seas. The politician hastens to agree with the majority, insists that their prejudice is patriotism, their ignorance wisdom; not that he loves them, but because he loves himself. The statesman, the real reformer, points out the mistakes of the multitude, attacks the prejudices of his countrymen, laughs at their foilles, denounces their cruelties, enlightens and enlarges their minds and consciences; not because he loves and serves the right, and wishes to make his country great and free. He who refuses to stoop, who cannot be bribed by are the great pillars that support States. Above all, the citizens of a free nation should he loves and serves the right, and wishes to make his country great and free. He who refuses to stoop, who cannot be bribed by the promise of success or the fear of failure, who walks the highway of right and in disaster stands erect, is only the victor when real history shall be written by the truthful and wise. Those who bore the burden of defeat and kept their self-respect, who would not bow to man or men for place or power, will wear upon their brows the laurel mingled with the oak.

"He would not turn aside to avoid a foe, to greet or gain a friend. In his nature real history shall be written by the truthful and wise. Those who bore the burden of defeat and kept their self-respect, who would not bow to man or men for place or power, will wear upon 'their brows the laurel mingled with the oak.

HIS HATRED OF SLAVERY.

"Roscoe Conkiling was a man of superb consequences of a course pursued without complaint. He was charged with being proud. The charge was true. He was proud. His knees were as inflexible as the unwedgable and gnarled oak; but he was not vain. Vanity is a vane that burns, a willow that bends with every breeze. Pride is the oak that defes the storm. One is weakness, the other strength. This imperious man entered public life in the dawn of the reformation, at a time when the country, and the subserviency by the is most in fell uson its knees, politicians, and immorality, of patriotic dishonestry, of the reformation, at a time when the residue world. He had the pose of great ambitton fell uson its knees, politicians, and immorality, of patriotic dishonestry, of the cruelty and degredation of a people who supplemented the incomparable Declaration of Independence with the Fugitive Slave Law. Think of the honored statesmen of that ignoble time, who wallowed in this mire, and who, decorated with dripping fifth, received the plaudits of their fellowmen. The noble, really patriotic men were the victims of moba, and the shamless were cled in robes of office. At last the conflict came. The hosts of light and darkness preter the victims of moba, and the shamless were cled in robes of office, at last the conflict came. The hosts of light and darkness preter the victims of moba, and the shamless were cled in robes of office, at last the conflict came. The hosts of light and darkness preter the victims of moba, and the shamless were cled in robes of office, at last the conflict came. The hosts of light and darkness preter the victims of moba, and the shamless were cled in robes of office, at should become immortal. An amendmento the Constitution was proposed to the effect that no subsequent amendment should to the Constitution was proposed to the effect that no subsequent amendment should ever be made that in any way should interfere with the right of man to steal his fellow-men. This most marvelous proposition ever submitted to a Congress of civilized men, received in the House an overwhelming majority and the necessary two-thirds in the Senate. The Republican party in the moment of its triumph deserted every principle for which it had so gallantly contended, and with the trembling hands of fear laid its convictions on the altar of compromise. The old guard, numbering but 65, in the House stood firm as the 300 at Thermopyle. Thaddeus Stevens refused to kneel; Owen Lovejoy refused to surrender, and on the eve of disunion, in the shadow of civil war, with the air filled with the sounds of dreadful preparation, while the Republican party was retracing its steps, Roscoe Conkling voted no.

THE CHANFION OF RIGHT.

"This puts the wreath of glory on his tomb. From that vote, to the last moment of his life, he was the champion of the right, staunch and staiwart. From that moment staunch and stalwart. From that moment he stood in the front rank. He never wavered and never swerved. He battled for life, for the rights of slaves, the dignity of labor, and the liberty of all. He guarded with a father's care the rights of hundreds hated and despised. He attacked the savage statutes of the constructed States with a torrent of invective, scorn and exceration. He was not satisfied until the freedman was an American citizen, clothed with every civil right; until the Constitution was his shield; until the ballot was his sword. Others wavered, but he stood firm. Some were false, but he was proudly true, fearlessly faithful unto death. Nothing can be grander than to sow the seeds of noble thoughts and virtuous deeds. To liberate the bodies and souls of men, to earn the grateful homage of a race, and then in life's last shadowy hour to know and feel that the historian of liberty will be compelled to write your name in the history of that great party that let the oppressed go free, that lifted our Nation from the depths of savagery to freedom's cloudless heights and tore with holy hands from every law the words that sanctified the cruelty of man, is most glorious in the annals of our race.

AN ABSOLUTELY HONEST MAN.

"Roscoe Coulding was an absolutely hon-

"Roscoe Cockling was an absolutely hon-est man. He uttered the splendid truth that the higher obligations among men are not set down in writing, signed and sealed but reside in honor. He was the ideal representative, faithful and incorruptible. He believed that his constituents and his country were entitled to the fruit of his experience, to his best and highest thoughts. No man ever held the standard of responsibility higher than he. He voted according to his judgment, his conscience. He made no bargains; he neither bought nor sold. To correct evils, aboilsh abuses and inaugurate reforms, he believed was not only the duty, but the privilege of the legislator. He neither sold nor mortgaged himself. He was in Congress during years of vast expenditure of war and waste, when the credit of the Nation was loaned to individuals, when claims were thick as leaves in June, when the amendment of a statute, the change of a single word meant millions, and when empires were given to corporations, he stood at the summit of his power, the peer of the greatest of leaders, tried and trusted. He had the tastes of a prince, the fortune of a peasant, and yet he never swerved. No corporation was great enough or rich enough to purchase him. His vote could not be bought for all the sun sees, or close earth wombs, or profound sea hides. His hand was never touched by any bribe, and on his soul there was never a sordid stain. Poverty was his priceless crown. Above his marvelous intellectual gitts, above all place he ever reached, above the ermine he refused, rises his integrity like not set down in writing, signed and sealed but reside in honor. He was the idea representative, faithful and incorruptible above all place he ever reached, above the ermine he refused, rises-his integrity like some great mountain peak, and there startis, firm as the earth beneath, pure the stars above. "He was a great lawyer. He understood the framework, the anatomy, the founda-tions of law. He was familiar with the tions of law. He was familiar with the great streams and cyrrents and tides of authority. He knew the history of legislation, the principles that had been settled on the fields of war. He knew the maximum of those crystallizations of common sense—those hand-grenades of argument. He was not a case lawyer, a decision index, or an echo. He was original, thoughtful and profound. He had breadth and scope, resource, learning, logic and above all, a sense of justice. He was painstaking and conscientious, anxious to know facts; preparing for every attack; ready for every defense. He rested only when the end was reached. During the contest he neither sent nor received a flag of truce. He was true to his clients, making their case his, feeling the responsibility, He listened patiently to details, and to his industry there were only the limits of time and strength. He was a student of the Constitution. He knew the boundaries of federal Jurisdiction, and no man was more familiar with those great decisions that are the peaks and promontories, the headlands and beacons of law.

HIS MARVELOUS POWER. "He was an orator, earnest logical, in-tense and picturesque. He laid the faunda-"He was an orator, earnest logical, intense and picturesque. He laid the faundation with care, with accuracy and skill and rose by "cold gradation and well-balanced form" from the corner-stone of his statement to the domed conclusion. He filled the stage; he gladdened the eyes of his audience. He had that indefinable thing called presence. Tall, commanding, erect, ample in speech, graceful in compliment, titakic in denunciation, rich in tilustration. prodigal of comparison and metaphor, his sentences measured and rhythmical felilike music on the enraptured throng. He abhorred the Pharisee and loathed all conscientious fraud. He had a profound aversion for those who insist on putting a base motive back of the good deeds of others. He wore no mask. He knew his friends. His enemies knew him. He had no patience with pretense, with patriotic reasons for unmanly acts. He did his work well and bravely, and spoke his thoughts. Sensitive to the last degree, he keenly felt the blows and stabs of the envious and obscure, and the small blow of the weakest; but the greatest could not drive him from his convictions. He would not stop to ask or give explanation; he left his words and deeds to justify themselves. He held in light esteem the friend who heard with halt-believing ear the slander of a foe. He walked a highway of his own, and kept the company of his own self-respect.

"He would not turn aside to avoid a foe, BOWED TO DEATH ALONE.

"He would not turn aside to avoid a foe to greet or gain a friend. In his nature there was no compromise. To him there

A Democratic Caucus on the Tariff Bill.

A Score of Amendments to the Measure Suggested.

The International Copyright Bill Passes the Senate.

How Old Probs Proposes to Improve the Weath Service-Another Appropriation for Pen-sions-The Senate Passes a Railway Land Forfeiture Bill.

By Telegraph to The Times.

WASHINGTON, May 9.—[By the Associated Press.] The Democratic caucus to night called together about 125 members of the House. Carlisle was not present, but Randall was. The proceedings were harmonious throughout. A resolution was adopted that any member desiring to offer any amendment to the Tariff Bill, should, if he now proposed, hard it to the secretary of the caucus to be read, and referred to the Democratic members of the Ways and Means Committee, and if not already prepared, that he might hand the same to said members. It shall be the duty of said members to consider all such amendments, and, if requested to hear the parties offering the Randall was. The proceedings were harquested, to hear the parties offering the same, and to report the amendments back severally to another caucus to be hereafter severally to another cancus, to be hereature held, with their recommendations thereon.

Representative Campbell suggested that it would be well if the committee should agree not to report on amendments before the New York Democratic Convention next week, and to this suggestion a favorable response was made.

Among the amendments presented and referred were the following:

By Mr. Crane of Texas: To place sheepshears, surgical instruments, coal and all machinery used in the manufacture of bagging or cotton or woolen goods on the free list; also to reduce the tariff on woolen manufactured goods to 25 per cent. ad va-lorem; to fix the duty at 2 cents per yard on bagging, for cotton or other manufactures suitable to the use to which cotton bagging is applied, composed in whole or in part of nemp, jute, flax, gunny bags, guersey cloth, first section declares forfeited to the United States all lands granted to any State or to any corporation to aid in the construction of a railroad, opposite to and coterminus with a portion of such railroad not now completed and in operation, for the construction or benefit of which lands have heretofore been granted, and all such lands are declared to be part of the public domain. The act is not to be construed as a forfeiture of the right of way or depot grounds of any railroad company heretofore granted, nor as the rights granted to purchasers or settlers by an act to provide for the adjustment of land grants made by Congress to aid in the construction of railroads, and for the forfeiture of lands and for other purposes, approved March 3, 1887, or as repealing, altering or amending that act, or as in any manner affecting any cause of action existing in favor of the purchasers.

The second section authorizes persons in possession of any such lands (prior to the list of January, 1888) to purchase them within two years from the United States in quantities not exceeding $30 acres, at the rate of $2.50 per acre.

The third section refers to lands of the Northern Pacific Railroad Company, heretofore forfeited, and gives persons in possession of (prior to the 1st of July, 1885) a like right, and confirms to the city of Portland, 'Or., a right of way and riparian rights for a water-pipe line.

The fourth section reserves the right to forfeit other railroad-grant lands for failure, past or future, to comply with the conditions.

The fith section exempts from the States have heretofore been granted, and all such the centennial celebration of the Ohio Valley passed.

After passing several bills of minor importance, the House went into Committee of the Whole on the Tariff Bill.

Mr. Morrow of California concluded his speech in opposition to the bill, addressing himself more especially to the free lumber clause of the measure. He stated that labor engaged in the manufacture of lumber on the Pacific Coast was exclusively well-paid American labor. The placing of lumber on the free list would ruin this manufacture by bringing it into competition with the manufacture of British Columbia, where labor was performed by Chiames. He also declared that the raisin industry of California would be destroyed if the duty on raisins. was reduced, as proposed by the bill, one-half cent per pound. Passing to the borax interests, he referred to the rapid grewth of the industry since the tariff had been placed on borax in 1883. The domestic product had increased from 500,000 pounds in 1883 to 10,800,000 pounds in 1885, while, the price, owing to home competition, had declined from 25 cents a pound to 6½ cents per pound. The pending bill proposed to place borax on the free list, and the effect of this proposition was that the great firm of William T. Coleman & Co. had been compelled to suspend.

Mr. Hooker of Mississippi spoke in favor of the bill, while Mr. Houk of Tennessee followed in a speech against it.

Mr. Wise of Virgina also favored it, and Mr. Kennedy of Ohlo denounced the Democratic party as one of free trade.

Mr. Boutelle of Maine then quoted authorities in support of his declaration that Garfield was not a member of the Cobden Club. In the same connection he read a letter from Murat Halstead.

Mr. Bynum of Indiana cited authorities to show that Garfield had been elected to the Cobden Club, and had accepted membership.

The committee then rose, and the House adjourned.

WASHINGTON NOTES.

Old Probs Adopts a New System of Indications.

WASHINGTON, May 9.— [By the Associated Press.] In view of the necessity of furnishing night indications to the press of the country at an earlier hour than at present is practicable, and in order to facilitate the intention of the Chief Signal Officer to place more promptly, satisfactorily and to place more promptly, satisfactorily and clearly before the general public the chart observations of the Signal Corps, it has been decided to substitute telegraphic observations at 8 a.m. and 8 p.m., standard eastern time, for the three observations now telegraphed. The third telegraphic observation will be replaced by special observations sent to this office, which will keep the indications officer fully advised as to the edge of advancing cold waves, local storms or other marked atmospheric phenomena. In addition, there will be mailed from the large commercial centers to the surrounding points, each day, charts which will enable those interested, as well as the general public, to note for themselves the advance of storms. By this means local meteorologists will frequently be able to decide for themselves more satisfactorily than can be done by the present general predictions from the main office as to the character of the weather which may be expected in their own territory.

Postmaster-General Dickinson today issued an order, fixing $42.75 per mile per annum as the minimum compensation to be allowed for the transportation of mails on railroads carrying over their whole length an average of less than 200 pounds per day. VICTORIA (B. O.), May 9.—Rev. Father Lemuels arrived from the Claoquot :Mission station this morning, and reports the Indians greatly excited over the mysterious disof the head chief of the appearance of the head chief of the Muchrlet tribe. The belief prevails that he has been murdered by a hostile tribe above Hesquiat. They are also greatly troubled over the Bering Sea dispute. Employment in this industry has been their chief support. They refuse to accompany vessels to sea for fear of selzure.

Attempted Arson.
SAN FRANCISCO, May 9.—A bold attempt was made in broad daylight this morning by John Govey, a contractor, to set fire to the extensive lumber-yards of the West ered running out of the yard from the spot where a pile of rags saturated with kero-sene had been fired under a pile of dry lumber. It is reported that Govey had a dispute with the company regarding some lumber he had bought and threatened ven-geance. He was arrested.

Southern Pacific's Loss SAN FRANCISCO, May 9.—The steamship Eureka, that went down off the coast of Eureka, that went down off the coast of Virginia the other day while on her way from New York to New Orieans, belonged to the Southern Pacific Company. She was one of the line of steamers that form a portion of the "Sunset route" between San Francisco and New York, via New Orieans. No definite particulars about the cargo of the vessel has as yet reached the freight office of the company in this city, but it is said that 800 tons of freight bound for California formed a portion of the cargo.

Injured by a Runaway.

SACBAMENTO, May 9.—During a runaway today a wagon occupied by Isaac Neal and Mrs. James Blundin collided with that of an old man named Myers. Both of the former were thrown out, the lady receiving a severe cut in the face. Myers was struck on the head, and probably fatally injured.

Chinamen Afraid to Go Home.
SAN FRANCISCO, May 9.—The ratification by the Senate of the new Chinese treaty has already had the effect of decreasing the number of Chinese departures from this port. Those now here hesitate about visiting China, for fear they will be unable to return.

The Fire Question at San Diego.
San Diego, May 9.—The City Council has decided to call an election on the question of organizing a paid fire department here, and purchasing a new fire engine and fire alarm system.

The platform is strong and indorses the legislation of the New Jersey Legislature in restraining the liquor traffic, and attacks
Gov. Green's appolutments.

The clause indorsing the State temperance legislation in the report of the Committee on Resolutions was greeted with mingled applause and hisses. The report was adopted, as was also a resolution favoring William Walter Phelps for President.

A separate high-tariff resolution was referred to a committee. The platform declares the mission of the Republican party to be: Protection to industries of the people by tariff adjusted to that special end; protection to the civil rights of the people, by a free ballot and honest count; protection to the basis of character of the people, by the education of children; protection to the Government, by premoting reform in the civil service, and protection to the homes of the people, by due restriction on vice and intemperance.

WISCONSIN REPUBLICANS.

WISCONSIN REPUBLICANS. Madison (Wis.), May 9.—The Republican State Convention met at the capitol today at noon for the election of delegates to the National Convention. Ira D. A CITIZEN DEFENDS SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA.

Some Talk About the Alleged Falling Out of the Bottom-Misrepresentations of California Refuted-Su-

Free Press:

Los Angeles (Cal.), Feb. 20, 1888.
Your letter of long ago was duly received and should have been answered long since, but I thought I would wait and see if the bottom was out of California, as the papers east of the Rockies have so long insisted was the case. I am sorry to see the malicious misrepresentations that, are being constantly sentations that are being constantly spread before the people of the East, when the fact remans that California is as always hitherto, the most perfect place for homes that can be found any-where, and is just as prosperous and delightful as it was months ago, when all of you "press fellows" were willing and anxious to set forth its glories. The true inwardness of the change is not that California is a fraud any more now than at any time hitherto, but that the furor to come to the golden shore, and the immense sums of money, being brought here, combined to work disastrous results in depleting shore, and the immense sums of money, being brought here, combined to work disastrous results in depleting the frost-bitten regions of much of their wealth and thousands of their best citizens, for it is a noted fact that we have fewer tramps and worthless, people in Southern California than any other place I know anything about. I I do not blame the good people east for trying to keep their people and money from coming here, for the bone and sinew, with the means they control, cannot be spared from any section of the country in such numbers and sums as have been turned in this plainly visible from here.

Vineent's College spent several days here last week assisting Rev. B. Smyth in preparing a large class of young folks for their first communion.

The appearance of a large California lion in this neighborhood occasioned considerable excitement here last week. He was seen by several parties and an unsuccessful hunt was made for him. Hay is being cut here now by the hundreds of acres. The weather is favorable, though the mornings generally are somewhat cloudy.

The reflection of the electric lights in Los Angeles and Pasadena are plainly visible from here. and sinew, with the means they con-trol, cannot be spared from any sec-tion of the country in such numbers and sums as have been turned in this and sums as have been turned in this direction, but, at the same time, the disreputable means resorted to are no credit to those who seem to think they cannot accomplish their object in any other way. I must say that I have not seen in your paper such a statement as I speak of, and they may creep into the columns of any paper sometimes. the columns of any paper sometimes, where the management is divided. But the course of the News and many other eastern papers is simply villainous. If they would allow any corrections of their misstatements, it would seem as if they wished to be fair, but I happen to know the News at Dallas will not publish anything now favorable or in justification of California.

Of course the people here dislike the way in which things are misrepresented, but have no fears that our country will be seriously injured by these attacks. Every man and family who come here and stay long enough to take off their hats and take a bath are ready to testify in our behalf, and when you remember that not a single person who has ever come to California and remained, whether rich or poor, but has bettered his condition, and that all of these have friends and acquaintances who will, to a great extent, be governed by their experience, we do not apprehend that there will be any serious check in the tide of immigration and flow of capital to our shores. You will no doubt call to mind the fact that certain peripatetic scribblers used to skip through Texas, and while not staying long enough to have a shirt washed, and, of consequence, not be-ing in position to know of what they were writing, would write back to the old States accounts of Texas which were totally vicious and almost devoid of truth. We Texas people denounced them as they deserved.

No one can come to California, stay a few days (perhaps in some of our short, rainy periods) and be able to pass or form any matured opinion as to its merits or demerits, nor indeed of any other country. I have known persons to have interviews published in the News who came into and out of the State, inside of two weeks, who pears agt off the cars event at one or never got off the cars except at one or two points, and then write up (or down) the country, describe places they had not seen at all, and, of course, they had not seen at all, and, of course, much of the data given was unreliable, while more had no basis whatever. I am not making these comments because I feel aggrieved, nor for your benefit, but simply talking to you as a triend. I am abundantly satisfied with my venture, and shall doubtless remain here until my summons comes; and I do not know of a single person who wishes to return, who (as I said before) has remained long enough to see and know something. know something.

Business here, and all through Southern California, is not near so excited as last summer, and conservative people do not wish to see so much "inflation if you choose, as we had last year. The transfers average now about $6,000,000 per month, even better than this time last year, and while there—are a great many more lots surveyed than may be required for years, there is very little of the peculiar features of the Indianapolis craze of 1873, and with the falling off in business mentioned, we do not anticipate anything like a panic. About the millions on millions of dollars of deferred payments which our friends east predicted could not be made, I shave to say that so far there has been no trouble on that score. Send you today a Times with a very fair article, which is by ex-Gov. Shel-don. Yours ever, H. P. LANTZ.

ARCHBISHOP ALEMANY.

Outline of the Career of a Profound

Scholar and Linguist.

Archbishop Joseph Sadoc Alemany, who died in Valencia, Spain, a few days ago, was born in the town of Vich, near Barcelona, in the province of Catalonia, in the year 1812. It was at this place that he was ordained priest.

In 1847 he came to the United States and located at Nashville, Tenn. In 1850 he was elected Bishop of Monterey, which at that time had under its spiritual jurisdiction Los Angeles, Grass Valley and the whole of Utah.

In the year 1853 he was raised to the Scholar and Linguist itual jurisdiction Los Angeles, Grass Valley and the whole of Utah.

In the year 1853 he was raised to the archdiocese of San Francisco, which office he retained for over 30 years. 'In May, 1885, he left for his old home in Spain. Owing to the excessive labor attending the rapidly growing archdiocese, the present archbishop, Most Rev. P. W. Riordan, was appointed his coadjutor, with the right of succession.

Archbishop Alemany was of the order of preachers, otherwise known as the Dominican Order, and was a most profound scholar and a great linguist, speaking nearly all the modern languages with the greatest fluency.

He was also the first Bishop of Upper California. his predecessor, in 1840, Diego Garcia y Moreno, being Bishop of both Upper and Lower California. The was through his influence that, shortly after his arrival in San Francisco, the Sisters of Charity, Mercy and of the Presentation came and located permanently in that city. Some of the handsomest churches, colleges, convents, asylums, hospitals and theological seminaries in the State owe their existence mainly to the untiring efforts of Archbishop Alemany.

During the early days of his ministry in California be was burdened with the care of a diocese covering a large territory. The time was spent by him in traveling over dangerous trails, in crowded conveyances, sleeping at night in rude cabins, administering confirmation, he aring confessions in many languages and preaching in many tongues. He bore the double character of missionary and bishop. The Archbishop's retirement came

A Democratic View of It.

[Kansa City Times (Dem.).]

Conkling is dead, Blaine is abroad, and everybody knows what happens to the absent lover. The race is a four-mile one, and Harrison is impossible—likewise Hawley. When one speaks of Gen. Sheridan one merely intends to tickle him with a straw, and a powerful poor tickle at that. Stanford has too many railroads and too much money, likewise Chauncey M, Depew. Evarts—well, neither party just now is dealing in antiquities. There are a lot of other small fry mentioned, even Foraker; but life is too short to sum them up and portray their species.

Therefore, all this gravitation toward Sherman.

What Am I to Do?

The symptoms of billousness are unhapply but too well known. They differ in different individuals to some extent, A billous man is seldom a breakfast-eater. Too frequently, alas, he has an excellent appetite for liquids, but none for solids of a morning. His tongue will hardly bear inspection at any time; if it is not white and furred, it is rough, at all events. The digestive system is wholly out of order, and diarrhea or constipation may be a symptom or the two may alternate. There are often hemorrhoids, or even loss of blood. There may be giddiness, and often headache and acidity or flatulence and -tenderness in the pit of the stemach. To correct all this, if not effect a cure, try Green's August Flower; it costs but a trifle, and thousands attest its efficacy.

OFFICE OF THE TIMES,
Los Angeles, Wednesday, May 9.
Owing to the arrival of two carloads of Iowa Chickens today, and another carload being on the way, the prices have taken as decided drop here, having fallen off $1 per dozen, large broilers now being quoted at Eastern Eggs are a trifle lower, the prices ranging from 16 cents to 17 cents.

There is no change in the balance of the market, with the exception of New Potatoes, which are now held at $1 to $1.25.

New York, May 9—The stock market was again weak in the forenoon, but recovered later in the day and became very active and decidedly strong, the list making material advances. The close was active and from at or near the best prices of the day. The active list tonight almost invariably shows advances, though Burlington and Quincy, nothwithstanding its recovery, is still 14, lower, but Western Union and Kanssa and Texas are up 13, each. Canada Southern 1 per cent., and others fractional amounts.

Governments were dull but steady.

Mining shares were in light demand.

THE CITY IN BRIEF.

There was a good showing of country people in the city yesterday.

Luscious-looking apricots may now be purchased in the local market.

"Cherry ripe" is all the cry at the fruit stores just now, for they, with gooseberries, are very abundant.

The annual concert given by the ladies of the German Benevolent Society will be held on the 24th inst. on the 24th inst.

The employes of the electric road were talking seriously yesterday of going out on a strike. They want shorter hours.

Los Angeles Lodge No. 55, A.O.U.W., held their regular meeting in Opera Hall last evening. Only routine business was transacted.

Loafers are again beginning to monopo-lze the courthouse steps, to the exclusion of people having business in the Recorder's office.

On the 7th instant the ladies of San Francisco gave Charles Dickens an invitation reception at the Palace Hotel. It was considered a fashionable social event.

The streets were full of rumors yesterday and last night regarding the action of the Grand Jury, and it is said that there are several surprises in store when the full report is made public.

Miss Alerino Bell, who has been spending a very pleasant vacation in Southern California, leaves for home today by the Santa Rosa in company with Mr. and Mrs. Merric Reynolds of San Pedro.

Frankie Dykes, who is awaiting her trial for having attempted to assault the brother of her seducer at Santa Monica, is still languishing in jail, not having been able to furnish bail. She has no friends here, all her relatives being in Missouri. The confinement and prison fare are telling severely on her health.

The Rurdick block, at present under course of erection at the corner of Spring and Second streets, is to cost $125,000. There will be two stores on Spring and three on Second street. The lower floors will be of marble and the ceilings and walls of hardwood, with a wide wainscot. The front of the basement will be fitted for offices; the second, third, fourth and fifth stories will also be devoted to the same purpose, making 100 offices in all. The top story is to be arranged for residence or club purposes.

The British Benevolent Society held its fourth annual meeting Monday evening at the offices in University Bank block. After the offices in University Bank block. CONSUMPTION.

From consumers, "to waste away," usually plied to the advanced stage of lung disease the following are prominent symptoms in first stage, and whenever any of them ex-a thorough examination should be made the first stage, and whenever any of them exist a thorough examination should be made, with a view to arreating the disease as shown to exist. There is usually a sense of weariness upon a little exercise, a disposition to remain passive and idle, despondency, often from no apparent cause, a peculiar sensitive ness to the effect of old, and a breathlessness upon moving quickly, or descending a hill or stairs, a slight, backing cough, with or without expectoration, excit billity upon slight occasions, flying pains through the chest or back, or under the shoulier blades. The symp oms are mere noticeable toward or during the night, slight fever in the afternoon cold feet or hands, or, in many cases, blue lividity of the lips and roots of the finger-nuls.

cold feet or hands, or, in many cases, blue lividity of the lips and roots of the fingernalis.

Constitutional or tubercular consumption is a common form of lung disease. The progress is slow, but if left to itself is no less sure. It usually begins with a dry cough. At first these tubercles are exceedingly minute, the patient not at all suspecting their presence. Gradually they develop into more active disease, and then follows the train of symptoms which leaves no doubt as to its true character. Sometimes spitting of blood or slight streaks in the mucus is the first indication of tubercular deposits, or it may be a chilly sensation in the back, followed by more or less heat in the palms of the hands, or an afternoon fluan on the checks. The slow and gradual inroads of this form of consumption leave the stomach and appetite undisturbed for a considerable time. Finally, however, hectic fever and night sweats supervene, preceeded by diarrhees. Then the loss of strength and flesh becomes rapid, the chest contracts, the features sharpen, the eye attains an unusual brills now and the patient begins to realize that he is in the last stage of confirmed constitutional consumption.

Persons desiring treatment by this system of practice can usy the remedies at home as well as a our office and which will cause no inconvenience or nindrance to business whatever.

I have seen so many of these cases cured

Thave seen so many of these cases cured that I do n.t consider any case hopeless unless both lungs are seriously involved. Even then the inhalations aid us in dissolving the mucus and in contracting and healing the cavities which nothing else can do with the ame success.
